BLAMES EXECUTIVE COMMITTEES FOR DEFICIENCIES OF AGRICULTURAL PERMANENT COMMISSIONS

SCORES AGRICULTURAL WEAKNESSES -- Bucharest, Romania Libera, 24 Jun 51

The fertile Dolj region, although producing large quantities of vegetables, still falls short of its potential. This is due to the negligence of various rayon and commune Executive Committees. For example, in Sadova Rayon, neither the chief of the commercial section nor its members bothered to visit the fields to check on the picking and transportation. As a result nearly 4,000 kilograms of peas spoiled since the contractors from Dranic Commune did not pick them in time. Another unfortunate tendency is the failure to use soil specialists and others in the fields of their training. After they are assigned to work for which they are unprepared.

It is necessary to improve the training of the members of the Permanent Commissions in food distribution, and to secure more effective cooperation from them. In the city of Cralova only five or six of the 29 members of the Permanent Commission appear when a meeting is called.

CALLS AGRICULTURAL PERMANENT COMMISSIONS INEFFICIENT -- Bucharest, Romania Libera, 26 Jun 51

Recently, a newspaper editor passing through the Putna region had ample opportunity to observe how inefficiently the Agricultural Permanent Commissions are functioning. The Agricultural Permanent Commission of Focsani Rayon has not organized a work plan, although harvest time is almost at hand. This is true for other parts of Rumania as well. Much of the blame rests on the regional rayon, and communal Executive Committees which have shown little interest in activating the Permanent Commissions.
